

Forum for Educators' Thinking and Creativity

The College of Mass Communication at Al Falah University participated in the Fifth Forum for educators' thinking, creativity and innovation organized by the Debono Center for Teaching Thinking.

The speakers discussed creative and critical thinking strategies and actions that stimulate thinking and develop innovative ideas and meet the demands of life in creative and unconventional ways in addition to generating other methods and solutions to problems and the ability to turn these into opportunities for creativity.

The session focused on the means to present ideas, how to come up with new ones, key to rejections by preparing a list of cons with regards to some issues and suggestions on how to correct them.

At the end of the forum, participants from various educational institutions from the Gulf received course certificates.
