

The Training Workshop on "Turnitin" Program

As part of professional development, Quality Assurance Committee from Al Falah University organized a training workshop on how to use "Turnitin" program which contributes to the marking and evaluation of the students' submissions. Ms. Ghaida Rawashdeh, Head of General Education Department headed the workshop.

During the workshop, Ms. Rawashdeh discussed the benefits of the "Turnitin" program and its uses in a number of the following areas:

How to identify the proportion of original materials in the documents and paper assignments submitted by students

How to prepare a model for evaluating the submissions of students

The program allows faculty members to put notes on the submissions by the students as well as interact with them by providing the level of actual performance (feedback)

Al Falah University's management enables members of the academic body and enhances the level of their performance by providing training and workshops to achieve the required professional standards, efficiently and effectively.
